ACADEMIC YEAR: 2022-23

INTRODUCTION:

Both teaching and non-teaching staff members attended a range of national seminars and workshops during the 2022-23 academic years. These exercises were created to improve the skills and knowledge of our employees and to keep them up to date on the most recent developments and trends in their respective fields. Every staff member (Teaching Staff and Non-Teaching Staff) was encouraged by our college to participate in total seminars, workshops, and FDP throughout the academic year 2022-23. These covered a wide range of topics, including learning management systems, educational technology, student engagement, computer literacy, financial literacy, current herbal product trends, and pharmacological and toxicological testing.

CONCLUSION:

It's great to tell that the conferences, seminars, workshops were beneficial to our staff members, and that they gained valuable knowledge, techniques, and strategies for teaching, evaluating, and student involvement. It's also good to say that our institute is committed to maintaining high standards and providing to-notch education. The fact that our staff members participated in these workshops and seminars over the previous year is also commendable. It shows that our institute is dedicated to providing opportunities for professional development and continuous learning for its employee. Such events are essential to keeping staff members up-to-date with the latest trends, techniques, and strategies in pharmaceutical field.

ACADEMIC YEAR: 2021-22

INTRODUCTION:

Throughout the academic year 2021-22, our college encouraged all staff members, including teaching staff and non-teaching staff, to participate in a total of national seminars, workshops, and FDPs. These events were designed to enhance the skills and knowledge of our employees, and to ensure that they remained informed about the latest developments and trends in their respective fields. The topics covered in these events were diverse, including learning management systems, educational technology, student engagement, financial literacy, current herbal product trends, and pharmacological and toxicological testing. By providing access to such a wide range of training opportunities, our college demonstrated its commitment to supporting the ongoing professional development of its staff members.

CONCLUSION:

Our staff members greatly benefited from attending the various conferences, seminars, and workshops, as they gained valuable knowledge, techniques, and strategies that enhanced their teaching, evaluation, and student engagement skills. It is also worth noting that our institute is dedicated to upholding high standards and providing top-notch education the fact that our staff members actively participated in these events throughout the previous year is commendable and reflects our institute's commitment to promoting continuous learning and professional development opportunities for its employees. These workshops and seminars are crucial for keeping our staff members up-to-date with the latest trends, techniques, and strategies in the pharmaceutical field, and ensuring that they provide the best possible education to our students.

ACADEMIC YEAR: 2020-21

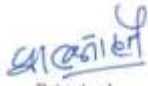

INTRODUCTION:

During the academic year 2020-21, both teaching and non-teaching staff members attended a variety of national seminars and workshops. These activities were designed to increase the competence and knowledge of our staff members and to keep them informed of the most recent trends and advancements in their respective disciplines. Our college encouraged staff members (Teaching Staff & Non-Teaching Staff) to attend more online than offline seminars, workshops, and FDP during the COVID 19 Pandemic throughout A.Y. 2020-21. These discussed a variety of subjects including educational programmes, current herbal product trends, financial literacy, pharmacological and toxicological testing, learning management systems, educational technology, and student engagement.

CONCLUSION:

Overall, our staff members found these seminars and workshops to be of great value. The acquired information, methodology, and tactics are beneficial for effective teaching, evaluation, and student involvement, which are crucial for delivering high-quality instruction and upholding our institute's standards as a premier school. In conclusion, the staff members' attendance at seminars and workshops during the previous academic year was quite productive. These kinds of events are organized to support and promote opportunities for the workers.

ACADEMIC YEAR: 2019-20

INTRODUCTION:

During the academic year 2019-20, both teaching and non-teaching staff members attended a variety of national seminars and workshops. These activities were designed to increase the competence and knowledge of our staff members and to keep them informed of the most recent trends and advancements in their respective disciplines. Our college encouraged staff members (Teaching Staff & Non-Teaching Staff) to attend more than online/offline seminars, workshops, and FDP. A.Y. 2019-20. These discussed a variety of subjects including educational programmes, current herbal product trends, financial literacy, pharmacological and toxicological testing, learning management systems, educational technology, and student engagement.

CONCLUSION:

Overall, the lectures and workshops were very beneficial to our staff members. The learned knowledge, technique, and strategies are helpful for teaching, evaluating, and student involvement that are essential for providing top-notch education and sustaining the standards of our institute as a prestigious institution. Finally, the staff members' participation in seminars and workshops over the course of the previous academic year was very fruitful. Events of this nature are planned to support and advertise opportunities for the workforce.
